

As a Hoosier, I applaud the efforts of our Attorney General's Office to halt harrassing solicitors. I have only a cell phone number, with a limited amount of minutes. You cannot be polite in explaining this to most solicitors, as they are persistant to give a long explanation of their product or service. An alternative, e-mail: I do not mind as much if their solicitation is in the form of an e-mail. I receive hundreds of junk e-mails each week and can quickly delete what I do not want, although still annoying. My friends, co-workers, and myself collectively wish the Indiana Do Not Call List be upheld.
